The sun is always up during the daytime and depending on the time of the day, it gives us a variety of feelings. When sun rises early morning, it makes us excited about the day ahead of us. On the contrary, sunset makes us reflect what has happened that day.

For a long period of time, Nantucket is well known for whaling. It seems that a lot of interior designs have been revolving around whaling with the usage of white and blue. We imagined whaling in a different perspective, what will the fishermen's look at after a long day. Probably a beautiful sunset at the end of the ocean after a long day of work.

Through this image, we created our mood board based on our inspiration of the colors and feelings that sunset offers.
